“ I realize daily how much this woman, my mom meant in my life. I miss her listening to me rant and rave without judging and her calm demeanor. Even though her life was not easy, she continued to be kind to everyone else and encouraged those around her. I will always miss her cooking and gardening tips, for she could do it all. I will also not leave the house until my bed is made, as she always insisted. But I think most of all, I will miss all that love in a morning cup of coffee that we shared so many times. I had no idea how important and fulfilling it was until she left for heaven. Thank you mom, for all the strength and pride you gave me. Love, your daughter

“1. I miss your baking (e.g. pies, cakes, cookies, bread, etc..). 2. I miss Sliders at Applebee's. 3. I miss playing Keno at Tollgate Inn before getting groceries at FM. 4. I miss coffee with you. 5. I miss seeing Hailey lick your face. 6. I miss how upset you would get at the Blazers and Raiders when they played badly. 7. I miss doing jigsaw puzzles together. 8. I miss you typing my papers on a typewriter; no mistakes. 9. I miss you helping me with my Algebra. 10. Forever in my heart.

“ I miss you every day. I see or hear things that I want to share with you and it hits me that you are not here to share. I miss all the things you used to do for us when we were growing up. You gave us a good life and taught us values and morals. We always knew our boundaries and sometimes tried to test them. I love you and will miss you. Forever in my heart!!!
