“ Rod was an amazing guy. He cared so much for people and was one of the most selfless people I knew. He loved buying bikes at Christmas time for the kids who were less fortunate. He always had a smile on his face and always tried to make people laugh. He was a genuine and gentle soul. This world has lost a great man, but heaven has gained a beautiful angel.

“ Rod touched the lives of so many, especially those who where once strangers at the goodwill outlet store to become friends due his kindness. He and his jokes I will never forget.
